V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-37	YES
	Claims	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims 1-37	YES
	Claims	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims 1-37	YES
	Claims	NO

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

The following documents were cited in the International Search Report:

D1: WO 2000/020444

D2: WO 2000/044769

Claims 1-37 are novel because neither D1 or D2 explicitly disclose χ -conotoxins with peptides with sequences corresponding to SEQ ID NO 5 or 6, and in the case of SEQ ID NO 3 and 4, peptides χ -MrIA, χ -MrIB, Mar2 have been excluded from the scope of the claims as a result of the proviso. Mar 1 of D2 does fall within the scope of SEQ ID NO 3 and 4, but is not disclosed as a χ -conotoxin peptide.

D1 discloses the χ -conotoxin peptides χ -MrIA and χ -MrIB which are of close sequence homology to SEQ ID NO 5 and 6 of the current invention, and furthermore contemplates derivatives, including addition or substitution of amino acids. However D1 has not disclosed the specific modifications as in the current claims, and given the applicant has found certain unexpected advantages of SEQ ID NO 5 over χ -MrIA (see page 7 lines 22-31 of the current application) and that the derivative according to SEQ ID NO 6 increases the binding affinity of the χ -peptides, it can be acknowledged that claims 1-37 are inventive when compared to D1.

D2 discloses peptides which appear to be α -conotoxins, in which case D2 teaches away from the χ -conotoxins of the current application. D2 discloses Mar1 and Mar2 which are also of close sequence homology to SEQ ID NO 5 and 6, but, again they are α -conotoxins, not χ -conotoxins. Even if they were χ -conotoxins, by using the same reasoning as for D1, given the unexpected advantages the applicant has discovered for these polypeptides claims 1-37 are inventive when compared to D2.

Claims 1-37 meet the requirement for industrial applicability.
